1. Call to order.

The meeting was called to order at 8:33 a.m.

2. Introductions.

Staff and guests present introduced themselves.

3. Approval of Commission Minutes from April 20, 2023.

The minutes were motioned for approval by Commissioner Mathews, seconded by Commissioner Lucas, and approved by all.

4. Public Comment Period.

Rosaria CdeBaca, a Denver resident, thanked DPL staff and the Library Commission for all of their work with the library following the passing of the 2i ballot measure. CdeBaca commented that she would like to see the exceptional services continue and made an appeal to adjust the salaries of library staff to better retain staff and increase equity. She urged that to continue to move progress forward, we have a charge to ensure that staff are compensated to keep up with the cost of living.

5. Report of President and Members. Sonya Ulibarri

Commissioner Lucas shared thanks for all attendees of the Eleanor Gehres Award ceremony. She shared that the ceremony was beautiful and reflected the library and the community we serve. Commissioner Wolf shared she presented at the Denver American Indian Commission meeting and additionally was glad to see the Native American community being engaged through the Westwood Branch. Commissioner Salazar announced that nominations for the Latino Community Awards are open until June 30th.

Commissioner Ulibarri announced an upcoming social gathering for Library Commissioners. She also checked-in about Commission meeting structure and if there is still a need to have a virtual meeting option for future Commission meetings. Most Commissioners reflected that they are open to keeping meetings in-person at branch locations with an option to join virtually as needed. For future meetings, any Commissioners joining virtually should let the executive assistant to Michelle know at least 1 day prior to the meeting. Ulibarri also announced that Commissioner leadership is considering inviting Mayor-elect Johnston to the August Commission meeting to share goals, including bringing up the task force recommendation on governance. Commissioners Mathews and Montoya expressed agreement, especially on developing relationships and alignment with incoming leadership. Lastly, Ulibarri congratulated Nicanor Diaz for receiving the REFORMA Dr. Arnulfo D. Trejo Librarian Of The Year award for his outstanding contributions to DPL and the field.

6. Library Commission Awards Structure and Criteria Approval. Patty Salazar

Erika Martinez presented on the upcoming changes and clarifications to three community awards: the Eleanor Gehres Award, the Juanita Gray Award, and the Latino Community Service Awards. In addition to staff, Commissioners Salazar, Lucas, and Buchanon were among the group that gave feedback to create more consistency and clarity on the awards criteria and process.

Changes include that current employees are not eligible for these awards and former employees must be 3 years removed from their time at DPL to qualify. In regards to structure, each awards committee will consist of a community committee chair (this position will be a Library Commissioner) and community members who will be recruited yearly. Additionally, up to 2 current staff members can join as voting members. Commissioner Ulibarri gave appreciation for the process and structure building that has been done to increase consistency and keep the spirit of each ceremony unique.

Commissioner Lucas motioned for approval, Commissioner Montoya seconded with all in favor.

Questions:

- Q: What is the process for a community member being nominated?
A: Nominations are promoted on the website, through community outreach, and by word of mouth through committee members who receive toolkits to garner nominations.

7. Report of the Friends Foundation. Jeff Riley

Jeff Riley shared that at the Friends May Board meeting five new board members joined, bringing the total size to 20 members. Cara Fulmor, a former DPL staff member, joined the team and Monica Perrit was promoted. Riley noted a current national trend in philanthropy where there are fewer overall donors but bigger gift amounts. He hypothesized this may be due to inflation and aside from the trends, the organization is financially on-budget. Additionally, the Foundation decided to take a portion of its surplus operating money to pay down the loan supporting the Central Library renovation early. The funds will be replenished within a year and are estimated to save the Friends $75 thousand in interest payments.

Riley additionally shared the second Picnic with Friends event at Berkeley Park was well attended by over 100 guests, including Commissioner Montoya. He also shared the success of a loyalty event for donors who have the Friends Foundation in their will or estate plan for over 10 years. Both Anne Kemmerling and Amy DelPo gave remarks about the library at the event. At the International Public Library Fundraising Conference in June, Michelle Jeske spoke on a panel about the relationship between libraries and their foundations as well as giving a presentation with Jeff and the Boulder Public Library Foundation about the 2i ballot initiative work and Boulder's library district initiative. Lastly, Riley reported the Friends are holding an advocacy meeting on June 20th to work on messaging for the budget and governance improvement.

8. Central Library Space Recognition Approval. Jeff Riley

Riley presented that the Friends Foundation Executive Director nominates a donor for naming recognition to the City Librarian and includes a due diligence report on the donor. The City Librarian decides to accept or decline the nomination. If accepted, the Friends Foundation shares the naming opportunity with the donor and develops a recognition agreement. If accepted by both the City Librarian and the donor, the nomination goes to the Friends Board for recommendation. If recommended, the Library Commission has the authority to approve or not approve the name space recommendation. If the Commission approves, the donor signs the approved recognition agreement, and execution of the agreement is performed.

Riley reported at the May board meeting names were reviewed and the Friends partnered with DPL to conduct due diligence reports. Due diligence reports include information available in the public realm that is available about reputation and background information to ensure a suitable fit for recognition at the library. No issues were discovered with current candidates. Pam & Larry Jewett are in consideration for the naming of a reading room name space. The Foundation is recommending Pam and Larry receive name space recognition as an exception to the current policy that states Foundation employees are not eligible for named space recognition until 5 years after employment ends. The consultant advised that the best practice would be to make an exception to policy because the gift was made in 2019 and the policy at that time did not exclude Foundation employees, and because Pam did not become a Foundation employee until August 2022. Other donors including Yale Family Foundation, Sissel, and Schlessman are not exempt from the policy.

Commissioner Matthews motioned for approval, Commissioner Ulibarri seconded with all in favor.

Questions:

- Q: Has a situation occurred previously in name space recognition that required a policy change or exception for someone to receive recognition?
A: Exceptions to the policy are a rare occurrence. The Friends Foundation worked with a recognition consultant to determine if a policy change was necessary in this matter. Her recommendation was an exception, rather than a change in policy.

9. Report of the City Librarian. Michelle Jeske

Michelle Jeske reported progress on branch renovations. The main staircase at Central Library is being installed. Additionally, regular staff tours are available, and Commissioners can reach out to Michelle or her executive assistant to schedule. Renovations at Blair-Caldwell are almost ready; additional staff are still needed prior to re-opening. A large-scale celebration ceremony is planned to take place after branch re-opening. Jeske announced that the library is commissioning artists to complete mural pieces at Athmar Park, Barnum, and Pauline Robinson branches.

The newest Engage issue theme is Summer of Adventure; the program is available for ages birth to 18 with 15 activities to complete. These activities center addressing summer learning loss and promoting social-emotional learning opportunities; summer meals are also being served. Pride activities are featured in Engage and the downtown Denver Pride Parade is taking place June 25th. Featured in Rachel Fewell's director report are updates on Central Library, notably the hiring is underway for new roles. The Digital Navigators have added 3 new staff members, four new locations, and added Mondays to their schedule.

Jeske reported that the library has been invited, along with other City agencies, to participate in a transition notebook to welcome and educate the incoming Mayor-Elect Mike Johnston. She additionally anticipates participating in an orientation presentation 1 week after the new administration begins in office. Commissioner Ulibarri and Dustin Kress collaborated with the City Librarian to send a congratulatory email to Mayor-Elect Johnston following the election. Additionally, Jeske shared that City employees are not eligible to participate on the Mayoral transition committees.

The City has frozen hiring for all General Fund positions as a result of offsetting the financial costs of supporting migrants and shelters. The library showed precedence of financial due diligence as an independent agency to bypass the freeze but was not successful. Jeske shared the need to create further legal documentation and the opportunity present to clarify precedence setting and roles with the new City administration and the potential jeopardy of not meeting 2i commitments to voters.

Questions:

- Q: Are Library Commissioners individually or collectively allowed to lobby?
A: Michelle Jeske has a meeting with other Colorado public library directors to discuss current and future legislation possibilities to reduce censorship; she will follow up with the Commission on strategies.
- Q: Can a Library Commissioner apply for the Mayoral transition team?
A: Yes, there is an online form. A DPL team has been working on internal documentation on DPL/City collaboration strengths and areas of improvement.

10. Preview of Strategic Roadmap Dashboard. Kirsten Decker

Kirsten Decker gave an overview of the Strategic Roadmap renewal and the new online public dashboard.

Questions

- Q: What is typical for the library and the strategic roadmap process in terms of the decision-making process? Are strategic planning decisions usually outsourced through the Commission?
A: The Commissioner handbook outlines the role of the City Librarian who brings forth recommendations and suggestions but also invites the Commission into the process. The City Librarian will continue to engage the Commission and bring forward recommendations from all stakeholders for the Commission to provide feedback along the way and to ultimately discuss and approve the new roadmap.

11. 2021-2023 Roadmap Renewal through 2024 Approval. Kirsten Decker

Commissioner Montoya motioned for approval, Commissioner Niyompong seconded with all in favor the recommendation to extend the strategic roadmap through 2024.

12. Report of the Chief of Staff. Dustin Kress

Dustin Kress shared a more in-depth overview and update of the DPL Fund progress will be coming at the August Commission meeting. The first wave of hours expansions will take place on July 23rd at all community hub locations. These branches will be open for extended hours and 7 days a week. To prepare for pay adjustment analysis, all staff updated their Workday profiles with relevant work experience in Q1. Following a supervisor review, internal analysis, and bias checking, the team is preparing to share a detailed review of their methodology with the City's Office of Human Resources. Kress shared new materials are available for the public, including Launchpad educational tablets and new digital collection materials.

The Westwood Branch is temporarily closed for 8 weeks for renovation, including a new computer lab and other upgrades. Lastly, Kress shared an overview of the City's position review process. The team identified 65 roles to prioritize hiring and will be submitting 5 roles a week for position review with the City. The process is in place to find funds to support migrants in Denver.

Commissioner Ulibarri thanked Dustin for his service as Chief of Staff and participation in his last Commission meeting.

Questions:

- Q: After the employee pay adjustments are approved by the Office of Human Resources, what is the timeline for the pay adjustments to take effect?

A: It is estimated that OHR will take a month to review the data and after approval it will be a few weeks to process the adjustments through payroll.

13. 2024 Budget Approval. Amber Lindberg

Amber Lindberg gave an overview of themes impacting DPL and the continued vision to advance the strategic roadmap through our 2024 budget planning. The priorities of the new City administration will be heard in the coming months. For 2024, DPL will put in a request with the Budget Management Office to move ARPA grant funding into the General Fund.

The primary funding source is the General Fund, secondary is the DPL Fund with Special Trust and Grants funds supporting with less significant impact. The proposed 2024 budget was presented at the Library Commission Finance Committee May 4th meeting. The only modification since that meeting is an added capital request to complete bond renovations at Hampden and Broadway branch locations.

Lindberg shared in the 2024 General Fund budget line, there is an assumption that all of the library's requests to the City will be fully funded. This funding request includes the Plaza program, teen library services positions for the new teen library at Central, enhancing adult services, and continuation of services, as well as staffing for an ideaLAB at Green Valley Ranch. Construction for the Green Valley Ranch ideaLAB would be funded through the DPL Fund. She highlighted it is more sustainable for staff to be in the General Fund as it adds more support where there are increases to benefits and pension costs.

Lindberg highlighted gaps in the DPL Fund budget and that adjustments will be made prior to the final 2024 budget presentation to the Commission in December. The DPL Fund ongoing investments include expanded hours at branch locations and Central Library re-opening. One-time multi-year projects where the budget was already approved are not included in the report. An example is the Central Library construction where $6 million was already approved for capital in the 2023 budget. Funding is already approved and will not fully be spent this year and funds do not need to be re-approved for 2024.

Capital improvement requests for $4.6 million have been submitted for two branch locations. These requests will not be presented in any library fund financial statements because supplemental bond funds are managed by the City and the Department of Transportation & Infrastructure. Lindberg also shared the team has received preliminary numbers from the City projecting an increase in property taxes in 2024.

Commissioner Salazar motioned for approval; Commissioner Lucas seconded with all in favor.

Questions:

- Q: Can you talk more about the $4 million additional budget in the DPL Fund in relation to property taxes?

A: The Finance team has received preliminary numbers from the Department of Finance and Revenue team that is projecting an increase in property tax revenue in 2024 based on assessments. One thing that could impact this estimated number is a fall 2023 ballot initiative. The $4 million estimate is the lower end estimate. The higher estimate is approximately $1 million more. The finance team will not know the final total until fall and the final amount will be listed on the December 2023 projected budget.

- Q: In the DPL Fund, how is it decided how much of these monies will support capital projects? Is there a process or are decisions made based on need?

A: There is a process and the Finance team is developing a fiscal policy and formally document established procedures. All DPL libraries are owned by the City. In regards to bonds, the City has asked the community for funding and through that has made commitments to make building renovations. In regards to the gaps in capital construction projects at the library, we are asking the City to support the commitments they have already made to renovate buildings. The DPL Fund can be used if the team decides to supplement funding and add project scope in addition to the bond scope.

Requested Action: Receive Report

DENVER PUBLIC LIBRARY*Q2 2023 Financial Report

This report includes unaudited financial statements for the Denver Public Library (DPL) year-to-date activity as of June 30, 2023. The purpose of these statements is to inform the Library Commission of DPL's financial activities and to demonstrate compliance with the 2023 Budget approved by the Library Commission.

Budgetary funds managed by the library include the General Fund, Denver Public Library Fund (DPL Fund), DPL Capital Fund, Special Trust Fund, and several grant funds. This report provides information on budget and actual activities for all DPL funds for the 2023 fiscal year. Library management has authority to make budgetary adjustments between lines in the General, DPL and Special Trust funds during the fiscal year to reflect operational changes. However, grantor approval is generally necessary prior to making budgetary adjustments between lines in grant funds, and City Council must approve budgetary adjustments for the DPL Capital Fund.

The total amount of the General Fund budget remains unchanged throughout the fiscal year unless a formal budget amendment is adopted by City Council. The DPL Fund budget is based on estimates provided by the City Department of Finance and varies annually based on property tax assessments. At the end of each fiscal year, DPL and the City will reconcile actual revenues with projected and adjust our fund balance accordingly. The DPL Capital Fund requires City Council approval to appropriate budget into projects or establish new projects during the year. Library management may adjust the total amount of the Special Trust Fund budget, though total changes of 10% or greater require approval by the Library Commission. Grant fund budgets may change during the course of the fiscal year as new grants are received.

One indicator of sound budget management is spending as close to our allocated General Fund budget as possible without overspending. All remaining General Fund budget is returned to the City on December 31, and excessive over- or under-spending of the total budget allocation may imply ineffective resource management. Any unspent funds in the DPL Fund and Special Trust Fund are retained by the library which can be budgeted in a future year. The DPL Capital Fund is also able to retain unspent budget at the end of the calendar year; projects budgeted in this fund are often multi-year investments.

2023 Financial Reports

The first financial report is a summary of the 2023 actual activity for all library funds including revenue sources and expenditures by operational division.

Notes

Encumbrances (procured, but not paid) are not included in the Actual column, only paid invoices are reflected in these reports.

General Fund

The General Fund remains the primary operating fund for DPL, used for most of our permanent staffing and ongoing daily operations. With half of the year complete, we are on target for overall spending in this fund.

In May, the City implemented a Position Review Committee in response to the strain on the General Fund resources from expenditures related to the influx of migrant and asylum seekers in Denver. This committee is tasked with reviewing and approving all agency requests to fill existing vacancies in an effort to slow down hiring and increase vacancy savings in the General Fund. DPL has been complying with this request by submitting five positions a week, and as of the date of this report, all requested positions have been approved to fill. As of July we estimate a year end vacancy savings of $2M for DPL. Pay adjustments for existing staff are still being worked out with the City's Office of Human Resources to ensure our methodology is aligned with City practices and the pay is comparable with other City agencies. We are anticipating the new pay rates will be reflected in the third quarter. DPL is working with the Budget Management Office on how these increases will affect our 2023 vacancy savings in the General Fund and future year's personnel budgets.

Supplies and services categories depict normal spending for the first half of the year. One exception is the Utilities line, which shows an overspend of budget primarily due to T-mobile services that was budgeted in the Technology Supplies & Equipment line for our circulating technology; department managers are aware of these discrepancies and are managing the 2023 remaining budget and planning for 2024 budgeting accordingly.

Denver Public Library Fund (DPL Fund)

Property Tax Revenue is close to fully realized as of the end of the second quarter. Revenue is expected to continue to trickle in through the remainder of the year and final adjustments to the budgeted revenue appropriation will occur during the year end close process.

Hiring for summer expanded hours is depicted in the second quarter financial activity, and more hiring is continuing system-wide for library services and operational support teams. Also, an accounting adjustment was made in the second quarter to transfer employee bonus payments from the General Fund to the DPL Fund, where the expense was budgeted.

Supplies and services activities have picked up pace in the second quarter now that contracts and bid requirements have been completed. Technology for new employees and new digitization equipment is reflected in the Capital Equipment line. An additional $2.3 million is also encumbered, including programs such as $1 million in expanded collection materials, $300,000 for successful execution of vehicle leases while we continue the procurement process for owned fleet, $150,000 for moving services related to Central Library construction, and $115,000 for refresh projects at various library branches.

Other Funds

ARPA budget for the 2022 grant cycle was closed out during the quarter, resulting in a $10,686 decrease in the Revised Budgets for the Grant Revenue line and the American Recovery Plan Act-CCD expenditure line.

Expenditures in the Special Trust Fund primarily support Special Collections & Digital Archives (Central Library) and Collection Services (Collection, Technology and Strategy). In addition, Youth Services and Cultural Inclusivity Services (Neighborhood Services) are moving into a transition period as major private grants are sunsetting in 2024 and sustainable funding is being sought to continue the programs. During the second quarter a reimbursement was received for the Healthy Food for Denver's Kids program resulting in a reduction of overall expenditures from the prior quarter in the Neighborhood Services Restricted line.

The Preserving Black Western Legacies grant, one of the two grants provided by the Institute for Museum and Library Services, ended June 30, 2023. This $169,768 grant supported the digitization of DPL's most heavily used collections featuring historically significant African Americans which makes them available via a digital platform to researchers worldwide.

Capital Investments

An additional budget transfer of $850,000 from the DPL Fund has been approved for the Central Library bond supplement through an ordinance presented to City Council on May 22, 2023. This budget will allow the Department of Transportation and Infrastructure to complete Phase 6 of the Central Library Renovation project without exceeding the contract capacity of the contractor. The budget transfer is in process through the City's Budget Management Office and will appear in the third quarter financial reports.

Agenda Item 12

Requested Action: Approve Policy

In preparation for a First Amendment auditor, staff raised concern about use of the phrase "child care areas" which before was initially intended to be vague enough to include any space in the library needed to address caregiving needs i.e. sensory overload.

Unfortunately, this phrase has the potential to cause additional confusion among customers that already confuse the children's library services for childcare/daycare. These proposed changes provide additional clarity around protected private spaces and circumstances that should not be photographed or recorded.

Denver Public Library is a public space. Therefore, consent to use passive photos/recordings is assumed upon entering the library or participating in library events. To the extent applicable, any record or other information that identifies a person as having requested, obtained or used specific library materials or services may be disclosed by the Denver Public Library in conformance with C.R.S. § 24-90-119, as amended.

Members of the general public and staff are permitted to take photos or recordings in open, public areas of the library for personal, non-commercial use. As a courtesy, customers (especially those accompanying minors) and staff should be consulted before being photographed or recorded. If a customer or staff member does not wish to be photographed/recorded, they must notify the photographer/videographer to that effect. The use of photographic equipment (i.e. tripods or lighting) is prohibited without prior authorization by the library's Communications team. Individuals or firms wanting to take photos or videos for commercial purposes must first obtain approval from the City and County of Denver's Public Affairs Division.

To protect the privacy of library customers and staff, photos and video are restricted or prohibited in certain library locations and/or exhibition areas including, but not limited to restrooms, parental/caregiver support areas (i.e. nursing, sensory processing), locations housing museum artifacts or archival materials, and areas reserved for staff use only.

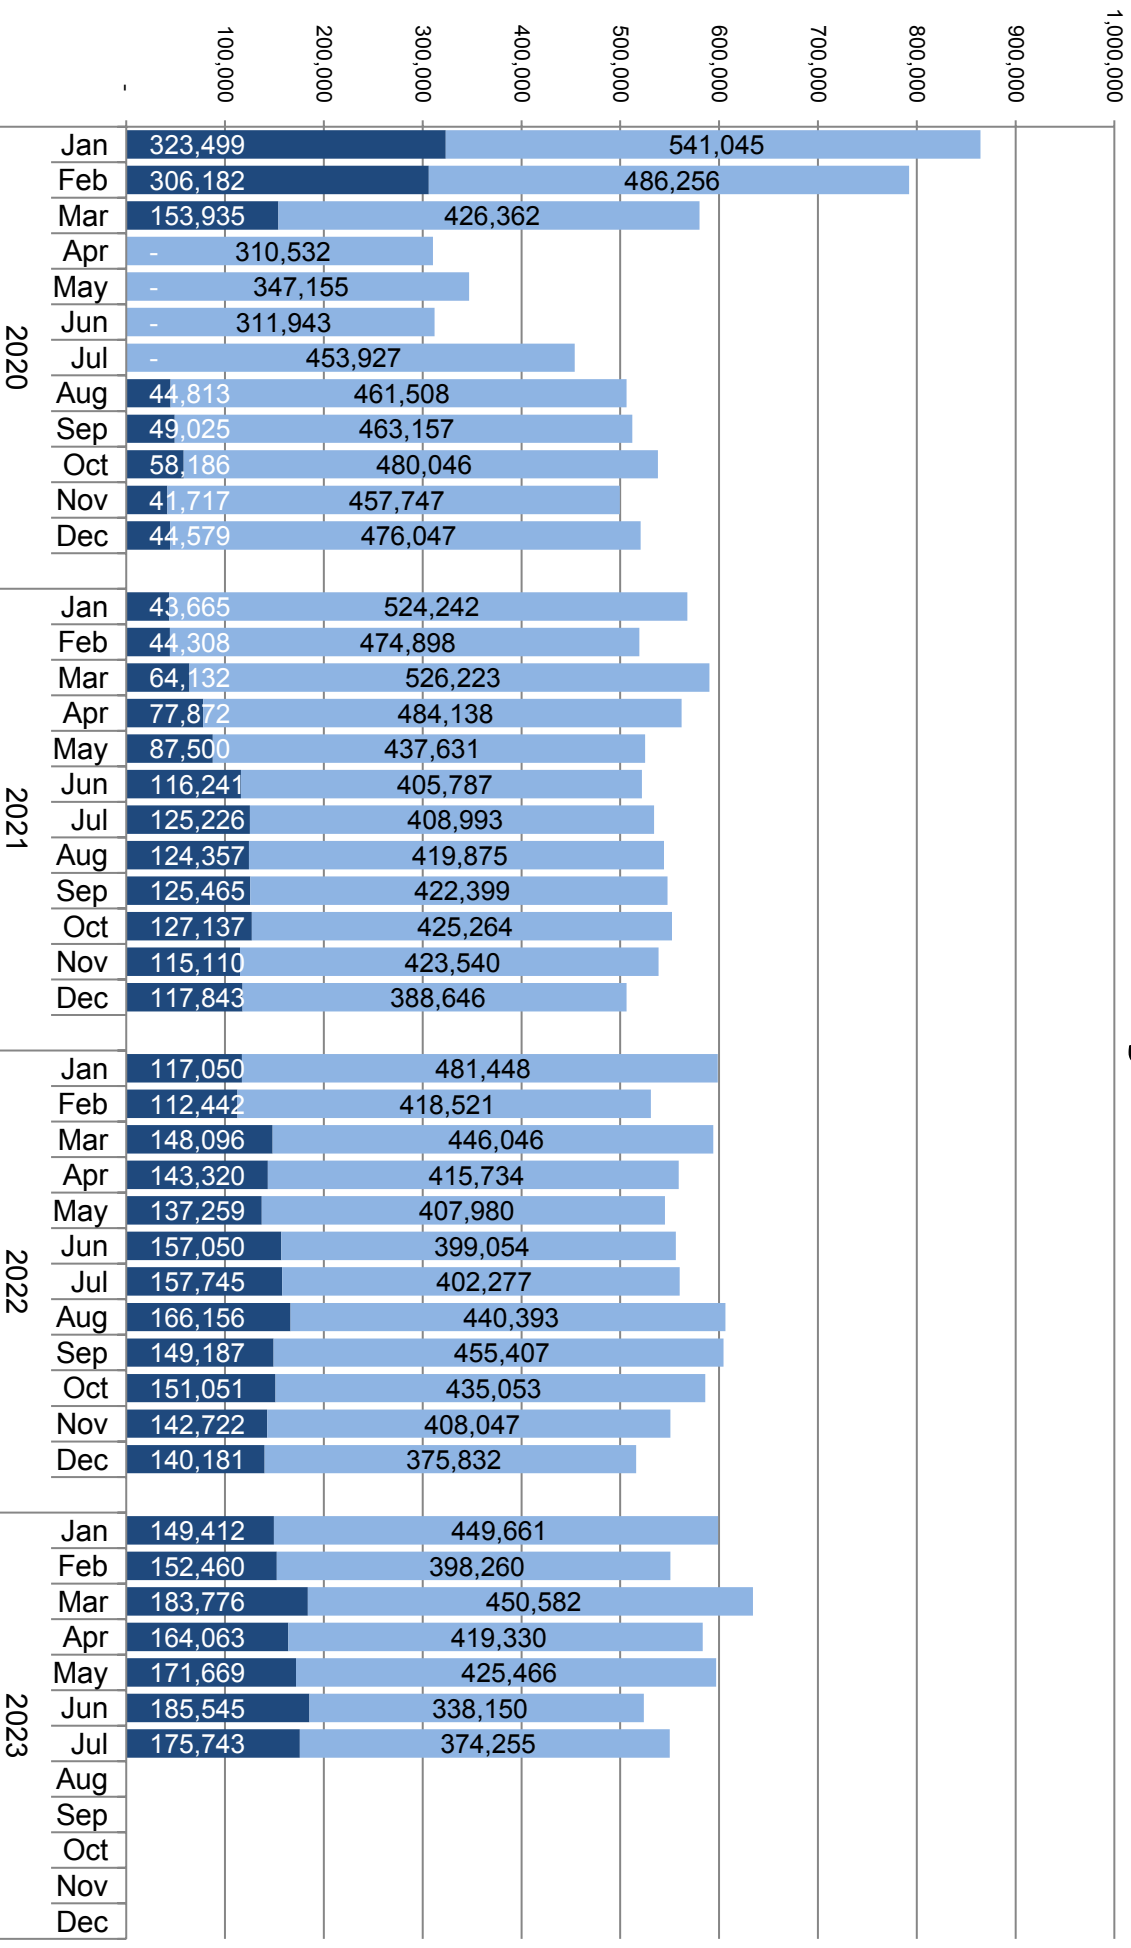

Library staff reserve the right to ask any individual or group to cease the taking of photos or videos when it appears to compromise public or staff safety/security or interfere with library operations. Photographers/videographers are asked to be respectful and refrain from disturbing other library users and staff; a repeated failure to do so may result in removal from the library premises. While photos and video of publicly available collections are permitted, customers are solely responsible for obtaining consent or other permission when capturing copyrighted materials.

The City and County of Denver ("Denver"), through its Denver Public Library reserves the right to use photographs, audio and/or visual recordings taken at any branch library for Library purposes, including marketing efforts. This use includes in print and digital marketing, editorial publication, and/or any other communication format related to the support of Denver Public Library's services and mission. If a customer is solicited by Denver Public Library staff for a photograph/recording that is intended for system wide campaigns, they may be asked to complete and sign a Release Form.

Members of the media are asked to notify the library's Communication Manager in advance when possible or upon entering the library to alert staff of the intent to photograph or video to avoid potential interruption of library services and operations.
